1 Background

1.1 Rationale
This Environmental Scan Report forms a critical component of Making FASD History in the Newcastle Local Government Area. The aim of this scan is to understand the context in which preventative work may occur by describing the local area, population, and the resources available within the community across the service, information, and policy environments.

This report is presented in four sections. Section 1 presents general information about alcohol use, alcohol in pregnancy, and FASD, with a focus on local Newcastle data where possible. Section 2 gives further detail regarding population demographics in Newcastle. Section 3 briefly describes the process undertaken to decide upon project focus areas. Section 4 presents the findings of a detailed service mapping activity in Newcastle and surrounding regions. Services explicitly or implicitly related to treatment and prevention of harmful alcohol consumption, and Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) are outlined and synthesised across the project focus areas. Additionally, this document acts as a guide to supplement data collected from interviews and surveys with local services and community.

1.2 Alcohol use in Australia
The number of Australians (aged 14 years and over) consuming alcohol daily has been steadily declining since 2001. Over the last 20 years young people (aged 14 – 24 years) have tended to delay the age at which they first try alcohol. However, the cultural acceptance of alcohol in Australia is widespread. In 2016, 77% of people reported drinking alcohol in the previous 12 months. (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017).

Lifetime risk
Australian guidelines on alcohol use specify that for healthy men and women, drinking no more than two standard drinks on any day reduces the lifetime risk of harm from alcohol-related disease or injury (National Health and Medical Research Council, 2009).

Single occasion risk
Australian guidelines further stipulate that drinking no more than four standard drinks on a single occasion reduces the risk of alcohol-related injury arising from that occasion for healthy men and women (National Health and Medical Research Council, 2009).

Whilst the proportion of people exceeding the lifetime and single occasion risk guidelines has been steadily declining since 2010 (Figure 1), there are groups within the population that are at considerable risk of alcohol related harm. In 2016 males were more than twice as likely as females to exceed the lifetime risk guidelines (24% and 9.5% respectively). The proportion of males exceeding lifetime risk guidelines has declined in recent years (24% in 2016 compared to 26% in 2013), however the proportion of females exceeding lifetime risk guidelines has remained consistent (9.7% and 9.5%, respectively). Additionally, most age groups have demonstrated declining trends in the proportion of people exceeding lifetime risk guidelines except for those aged 50 years and older (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017).
In 2016, more than 1 in 3 (36%) people aged 12 years or older engaged in risky single occasion drinking at least once in the past 12 months, consuming 5 or more standard drinks on a single occasion. Males were more likely to engage in this behaviour. Single occasion harms from alcohol are also compounded by geography. People living in Remote and Very remote areas are more likely than people in Major cities to drink alcohol at levels that place them at risk of single occasion harm (37% and 24% respectively) (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017). Further, Indigenous Australians are more likely to abstain from alcohol than non-Indigenous Australians. Among those who do drink, a higher proportion of Indigenous Australians drink at risky levels compared to non-Indigenous Australians (See figure 2).

1.2.1 Alcohol use in Newcastle
The Hunter New England and Central Coast Primary Health Network report rates of 20.1 per 100 people consuming alcohol at levels considered to be a high risk to health. This is higher than the Australian rate (Hunter New England and Central Coast PHN, 2018).

1.3 Alcohol use in pregnancy
Current Australian guidelines recommend that women abstain from alcohol when planning a pregnancy, during their pregnancy, and when breastfeeding, as no safe level of alcohol consumption has been established (National Health and Medical Research Council, 2009). However, risky drinking practices are widespread amongst Australian women. Half of Australian women consume alcohol before knowledge of pregnancy, and 25% continue to drink upon confirmation of pregnancy (Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, 2017). Further, 50% of pregnancies are unplanned, and there is a strong association between binge drinking and unplanned pregnancy (Colvin, Payne, Parsons, Kurinczuk, & Bower, 2007). Alcohol exposure at any time during pregnancy may result in damage to the developing fetus (ref). This damage causes several harms including miscarriage, stillbirth, pre-term birth, congenital anomalies, low birth weight, and Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD). FASD represents a range of cognitive, behavioural and physical impairments and is a leading preventable cause of intellectual disability (Khoury, Milligan, & Girard, 2015) (O'Leary et al., 2013).

1.3.1 Newcastle data on alcohol use in pregnancy
In Newcastle, data regarding alcohol use in pregnancy is currently collected through surveys of women who have attended antenatal care with Hunter New England Health. Dr Melanie Kingsland (Program Manager, Hunter New England Population Health) can be contacted for further information about this data collection at melanie.kingsland@health.nsw.gov.au or +61 2 4924 6673.

1.4 What is FASD?
Fetal Alcohol Septum Disorder (FASD) is a diagnostic term for the lifelong physical and/or neurodevelopmental impairments that result from brain damage to the fetus through exposure to alcohol during pregnancy. These impairments are permanent and negatively impact upon the individual’s development and quality of life. FASD is preventable and is caused by alcohol damage at any time during pregnancy, including before a pregnancy has been confirmed (Mattson, Crocker, & Nguyen, 2011).

1.4.1 Prevalence of FASD
The prevalence of FASD is difficult to estimate due to under-reporting of cases (Burns, Breen, Bower, C., & Elliott, 2013), the difficulty of diagnosing the disorder generally (Roozen et al., 2016; Symons, Pedruzzi, Bruce, & Milne, 2018) and a possible hesitancy of women to report on alcohol consumption during pregnancy due to fear of being judged or other negative outcomes (Burns & Breen, 2013). However, at risk Australian populations have been identified. FASD prevalence has been ascertained at 194 per 1000 among school-aged Aboriginal children in the Kimberley (Fitzpatrick et al., 2017), and 360 per 1000 among juveniles in detention in Western Australia (Bower et al., 2018). These rates are among the highest in the world.
1.4.2 Diagnosis of FASD

Diagnosing FASD is complex and requires a multidisciplinary approach. Diagnostic terminology for FASD has evolved over time, with categories including fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS), partial fetal alcohol syndrome (pFAS), and neurodevelopmental disorder-alcohol exposed (ND-AE) previously being used (Chudley et al., 2005). In 2016, the Australian Government endorsed the Australian guide to the diagnosis of Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) (Bower & Elliot, 2016). Diagnostic categories from this guide are summarised in Table 1 below. FASD is often not detected at birth unless there are distinctive facial and features and / or growth impairments. However, FASD can occur in the absence of these features. FASD is more often evident at key transition times (e.g. when a child reaches school age) (Dudley, Reibel, Bower, & Fitzpatrick, 2015).

1.4.3 Diagnostic services for FASD in Newcastle

The main diagnostic service for FASD in the state of NSW is the CICADA Centre, located at Westmead Hospital in the western suburbs of Sydney, about three hours south of Newcastle. The CICADA Centre provides care and intervention for children and adolescents affected by drugs and alcohol. The CICADA Centre NSW brings together three teams of experts from the Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders Clinic, Family Service and Adolescent Drug and Alcohol Service at The Children’s Hospital at Westmead to assist children, adolescents, families and NSW health professionals to build leadership and research into the prevention of harm to children and adolescents from drugs and alcohol.

For children in the Newcastle local government area (LGA), a FASD diagnostic service is available at the John Hunter Children’s Hospital for children under the age of 12 years. Older children are required to attend the Children’s Hospital at Westmead. A clinical psychologist, Paul Spencer who is based in Lambton, is registered on the FASD Hub. For adults, it is suggested that GPs consider referring to a neuropsychologist for a cognitive assessment. Further referral is suggested based on the challenges the adult is experiencing (e.g. refer to an adult speech pathologist for speech and language difficulties).

1.5 Making FASD History Newcastle

This project is funded by the Australian Commonwealth Department of Health to implement research informed community health promotion initiatives and workforce education and support. Since 2017, TKI and Mercy services have consulted with the Newcastle Local Drug Action Team (LDAT) who have identified FASD prevention as a health priority. Working with local services and the Newcastle LDAT, this project aims to:

1. Implement community health promotion messages (supported by formative research and an assessment of reach and effect)
2. Increase the capacity of local services to support individuals and families affected by Prenatal Alcohol Exposure (PAE) and FASD.

This approach involves several steps, including:
1. Establishing a governance structure that will facilitate comprehensive and meaningful engagement of partners, stakeholders and communities;
2. Employing a methodology that empowers community partners to co-design, implement and evaluate activities as feasible;
3. Conducting formative research and community scoping to confirm the specific features and implementation processes of the FASD Project;
4. With partners, stakeholders and community groups, designing, piloting, and evaluating FASD prevention and support strategies.

The current report provides a background and context to the proposed work in this project and outlines the current services available in the region, explicitly or implicitly related to prevention of FASD.
2 Newcastle: Geography and Demography

The City of Newcastle is Australia’s seventh largest city, located on the mouth of the Hunter River approximately 160km north of Sydney, NSW. It is also the second largest non-state capital city in Australia. The Newcastle LGA is located in the Hunter Valley region and encompasses 187 square kilometers. The LGA consists of 52 suburbs and is bordered by the local government areas of Maitland and Port Stephens in the north, the Pacific Ocean in the east and the local government areas of Lake Macquarie and Cessnock in the west. At the time of the 2016 ABS Census Newcastle LGA had 155,411 residents, 50.7% of whom were female (Table 2, pg. 7) (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016c).

The population of the Newcastle LGA is relatively homogenous compared to the population of NSW. According to the 2016 Census, 81.3% of the population of Newcastle was born in Australia, compared to 65.5% of the population in NSW as a whole. The top five countries of birth other than Australia were: England (2.1%); China (excludes SARs and Taiwan) (1.1%); New Zealand (1.0%); India (0.7%); and Philippines (0.5%). Similarly, 84.8% of people in Newcastle spoke only English at home, compared to 68.5% of people across NSW. The top five languages (other than English) spoken in Newcastle were: Mandarin (1.2%); Macedonian (0.7%); Italian (0.5%); Greek (0.5%); and Arabic (0.5%) (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016c).

About 3.5% of the population in Newcastle identified as being of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander descent, compared with 2.9% in NSW and 2.8% nationally. The median age of the population was 37 which is on par with the state (38) and national (38) medians. The proportion of people never married (40.7%) was higher than state and national proportions (34.4% and 35% respectively) and couples were more likely to be in de-facto relationships (11.6%) compared to those in the state of NSW (9.4%) or nationally (10.4%) (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016c).

2.1 Economy

Newcastle is the largest urban centre in the Hunter region. Newcastle's economy is largely based around the health care and social assistance sector (see Table 3), which employs 19.74% of the 102,800 people who work in Newcastle. The occupations of workers in Newcastle are described in Table 4 (page 8). Of the people working in Newcastle, almost half reside locally. An additional 31% reside in Lake Macquarie, with the remaining population of workers living in Maitland, Port Stephens, Cessnock and the Central Coast (REMLPLAN, 2019).

The Port of Newcastle is Australia’s largest coal export port by volume and a growing multi-purpose cargo hub. In the 2012/13 financial year it handled 150 million tons of bulk cargo, worth $19 Billion. The port precinct hosts a range of ship repair and other port related services on an area of over 700 hectares. Newcastle's Gross Regional Product is estimated at $17.617 billion. Newcastle represents 32.07% of the Hunter Region's Gross Regional Product (GRP), 2.91% of New South Wales' Gross State Product (GSP), and 0.95% of Australia’s GRP (REMLPLAN, 2019).

Figure 3 shows the median weekly household income for Newcastle LGA ($1,366), is higher than for regional NSW ($1,166), but lower than the NSW median ($1,481). Additionally, the median weekly mortgage repayment in the Newcastle LGA was $410, or 30% of household income. The median weekly rent was $344, or 25.2% of income. This is similar to the cost of housing for both regional NSW and NSW generally (REPLAN, 2019).
2.2 Newcastle Aboriginal Population

The Awabakal and Worimi peoples are the acknowledged traditional custodians of the land and waters of Newcastle and make up 3.6% of the total population.

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population of Newcastle has a younger age profile than the general population (See Figure 4). Approximately 30% of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander (ATSI) population were aged between 0 and 14, and 4.6% were aged 65 years and over, compared with 16.9% and 15.9% respectively for the total population in the City of Newcastle.

Of the 3,807 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people aged 15 years and older, living in Newcastle LGA, 1,963 were employed, while 355 were unemployed, giving an unemployment rate of 15.3%. This was higher than the unemployment rate of 7.4% for the total population of Newcastle. Over 39% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people aged 15 years and over had completed year 12 or above, compared to 52.1% of the general population. Approximately 11% had completed a Bachelor’s degree or higher, a much higher rate than for the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population of NSW (6.7%) (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016a).

2.3 Indicators of Disadvantage

The Australian Bureau of Statistics’ Socio-Economic Index for Areas [SEIFA] Index of Relative Socio-Economic Advantage and Disadvantage [IRSAD] ranks areas on a continuum from most disadvantaged to most advantaged. In the 2016 IRSAD, Newcastle had a score of 996, though there is significant variation in smaller geographical areas (known as Statistical Area [SA] 1) within the LGA. The lowest-ranked SA1 received a score of 475, compared to the highest-ranked which received a score of 1184 (Australian Bureau of Statistics, 2016b). Results of the Australian Early Childhood Development Census (2018) indicate that children in Newcastle are developmentally at risk in the domain of physical health and wellbeing compared to children in NSW and Australia generally (Table 5).

3 Focus areas

3.1 Consultations

In late 2017 and the first half of 2018 the Telethon Kids Institute team met in Newcastle with key stakeholders, including the Newcastle Local Drug Action Team, to identify key focus areas and activities to be undertaken by the FASD prevention project team. The consultations were conducted by members of the project team including Dr James Fitzpatrick (Chief Investigator), Kaashifah Bruce (Governance Manager- past), Annalee Stearne (Program Manager FASD Prevention- past), and Dr Tania Gavidia (Senior Research Officer- past). Key stakeholders and community groups were contacted to discuss the focus areas of Making FASD History in Newcastle and a snowballing technique was used to contact additional stakeholders, service providers, and other researchers in Newcastle. Consultation included unstructured one-on-one interviews and group discussions to capture the main concerns related to risky alcohol consumption in Newcastle.

Consultations were held with:

- Newcastle Local Drug Action Team (LDAT): Tony Brown (LDAT Chair), Elvira Johnson (Mercy Services), Professor John Boulton (University of Newcastle), Conjoint Associate Professor Adrian Dunlop (Hunter New England Health District and University of Newcastle), Catherine Norman (LDAT Secretary)
- Miranda Halliday (Hunter New England Central Coast Primary Health Network);
- Dr Henry Murray (Department of Maternity & Gynaecology, John Hunter Hospital);
- Sergeant Debra Rowe (New South Wales Police – Newcastle);
- Ms Helena Hodgson (Network of Alcohol and other Drug Agencies);
- Dr Murray Webber (Department of Paediatrics, John Hunter Hospital); and,
- Prof John Wiggers and Dr Melanie Kingsland (Hunter New England Population Health).

Through these consultations opportunities for activities aligned to the Newcastle LDAT priority areas were identified. Value adding to existing activities within the region was identified as important. It was agreed that the geographical focus of the project would be the Newcastle Local Government Area. As a result of these consultations three focus areas were chosen:

3.1.1 Education sector

Consultations highlighted a number of areas that could benefit from FASD prevention activities. These were as follows:

- Early intervention alcohol education, and FASD awareness, with high school aged students;
- Increasing awareness of FASD in the classroom and support for teachers to address learning problems;
- Addressing the high-risk behaviours of local University students, including harmful and risky alcohol consumption; and
- Increasing awareness of FASD within the University student population.

Consideration was given to the feasibility in the given timeframe, and accessibility of the target group, and local support and engagement. Due to the existing membership in the Newcastle LDAT and Callaghan (University of Newcastle) CDAT and focus on risky alcohol consumption among university students, Associate Professor Frances Kay-Lambkin in partnership with the Telethon Kids Institute, planned to develop an evidence-based intervention addressing the last two points.

Note on the above: In October 2019 the FASD prevention team were notified by the DOH that it did not wish to focus on university students, but instead broader community based health promotion. Hence, the prevention team will pilot a campaign from New Zealand (Pre-Testie Bestie) amongst women aged 18 – 35 years living in the Newcastle region.

3.1.2 Juvenile Justice Sector
The Newcastle LDAT requested support for a diversionary program where young people suspected of having a cognitive impairment can be diverted away from the traditional criminal justice system into appropriate community-based services. While the development of a diversionary program was considered out of the scope for the current project due to financial and time constraints, development of a referral pathway to access support and diagnostic services for young people in contact with the juvenile justice system suspected of having cognitive impairment and FASD was supported.

The aim of this work is to improve diagnosis and management of young persons with FASD and other cognitive disorders in contact with the Juvenile Justice System in Newcastle to reduce the risk of harm to both themselves and others, and break a cycle of reoffending.

Objectives
1. To map the patient journey for clients with possible undiagnosed neurodevelopmental disorders (including FASD) involved with the Newcastle Juvenile Justice System.
2. Create a referral pathway capable of building the capacity of staff working in the justice space (police, courts, youth justice agencies and affiliated welfare services).

3.1.3 Health / AOD sector
Consultations identified opportunities to contribute to GP education in the area by promoting existing resources (primary prevention). Additionally, the alcohol and other drug sector was consulted given their role in providing services to women who may be experiencing dependence on alcohol, and not access GP care.

The aim of this work is to identify gaps and opportunities for prevention of FASD within AOD services.

Objectives
1. Promotion of GP AUDIT-C resources
2. To identify the key services and types of programs addressing AOD issues for Newcastle residents; and
3. Determine how AOD services and staff work with women at high risk of alcohol exposed pregnancy, identifying gaps and opportunities for future prevention of FASD.
4 Newcastle service system map

4.1 Identifying services

This service system map forms a critical component of the design process to Make FASD History in Newcastle. This map outlines the current services available in the region related (explicitly or implicitly) to treatment and prevention of harmful alcohol consumption, and FASD. This activity is necessary to meet the objectives of each sector in Section 3 above. For example, it allows an identification of services/agencies for (1) health promotion activity, (2) ongoing implementation past the project end date, and (3) co-designers and implementers for referral pathways.

A number of methods were used to identify relevant services in the City of Newcastle local government area. Web searches were undertaken to identify government and non-government organisations operating in Newcastle through existing knowledge of the local area (the project officer has worked in the field of alcohol and other drugs for a number of years), existing databases, government departments and organisational websites.

The City of Newcastle Community Profile and Community Directory were two primary sources of information on economic, geographical and statistical data. The Services NSW website was also instrumental in identifying government departments based in the area.

After website searches had been conducted service providers were consulted to identify in-depth information about the programs they provide. Further information on these services can be obtained from the directory in Appendix 1.

1 Alcohol and Pregnancy

1.1 Drug and Alcohol Services

1.1.1 Hunter New England Central Coast Primary Health Network (HNECC PHN)

Address: Suite 11, 125 Bull Street, Newcastle West, 2302

Phone: 1300 859 028

Opening Hours: 8.30am to 4.00pm, Monday to Friday, Closed public holidays

Description: Funded by the Commonwealth Government the HNECC PHN is a not for profit organisation implemented to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the primary health care system.

The PHN does not provide direct services. It commissions services in areas of identified need and manages the service agreements with the commissioned organisations to deliver the primary health care programs.

The HNECC PHN region covers 130,000 square kilometres, and stretches from the QLD border in the north to Gosford in the south, and west past Narrabri and Gunnedah, and incorporates 23 diverse Local Government Areas. It has a population of 1.2 million people who live in small rural and remote villages, in regional towns and in densely populated urban centres.

1.1.1.1 Drug and Alcohol Treatment Services

Psychological counselling referrals: 4926 0529

ITC referrals: 4925 2259.

MHSCC referrals: 4935 3071

Description: Drug and Alcohol has been identified as a key priority health issue with a range of Local Government Areas experiencing greater levels of drug and alcohol harm than state and national averages.

The HNECC PHN has responded to these needs by supporting more integrated responses by commissioning 12 Drug and Alcohol services to address the need for more access to treatment and support where access has previously been limited, particularly pre and post residential treatment programs and identified at risk and vulnerable populations; provision to access, reach and effectiveness of existing services to address ever-increasing demand for treatment; increased service delivery capacity of the Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Sector in providing culturally-appropriate, holistic treatment and support.

HNECC PHN drug and alcohol services in the Newcastle Local Government Area includes Hunter Primary Care’s delivery of:

- Psychosocial counselling;
- Integrated team care (ITC); and,
- Mental health service care coordination (MHSCC) for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander clients.

1.1.2 Hunter New England Local Health District

Address: 670 Hunter Street, Newcastle West, 2302
Phone: 1300 660 059
Opening Hours: 8.30am to 4.00pm, Monday to Friday, Closed public holidays

Description: The Hunter New England Local Health District (HNELHD) is funded by the NSW Ministry of Health and covers a region of 131,785 square kilometres with an estimated population of 920,370. It encompasses a major metropolitan centre, regional and remote communities.

1.1.2.1 Drug and Alcohol Clinical Services (DACS)

DACS were set up in to provide a range of community, outpatient and inpatient services, from prevention and early intervention to treatment, referral and continuing care for people aged 16 years and above throughout the Hunter New England region.

The following DACS that relate to the Making FASD History Program are:

1.1.2.1.1 Drug and Alcohol Triage and Referral Service (DATARS)

Self-referral: 1300 660 059
General practitioners: Fax 4016 4661 (referral letter)

DATARS provides telephone intake for clients seeking drug and alcohol services. The service aims to identify the individuals treatment needs, preferences and risks. DATARS then refers the individual based on the information provided during the initial phone contact to the appropriate Drug and Alcohol Clinical Service.

Clients can self-refer by phoning DATARS and general practitioners can refer by faxing a referral letter. Other services can obtain a referral form from DATARS which can be returned either by fax or email, however, consent must be obtained from the client before a referral can be made.

When a clients is referred to a service will go on the waiting list and a clinician will contact them with the next available appointment. Waiting periods vary but are is usually over a two week waiting period to access the services.

DATARS do not refer clients to rehabilitation services as they are not part of the Hunter New England Local Health District and are non-government services. Clients can access rehabilitation service phone numbers by contacting the Alcohol & Drug Information Services (ADIS) on 1800 422 599.

1.1.2.1.2 Alcohol and Other Drugs Information Service (ADIS) telephone services

Phone: 1800 250 015

ADIS provides 24 hour 7 day a week telephone counselling, support, referrals and information for those affected by alcohol or other drugs. ADIS counsellors are trained to work with people who are concerned about their own alcohol and drug use, as well as callers who are concerned about their family or friends. ADIS is a free service which is available to all residents of NSW.

1.1.2.1.3 Adult Drug Court Program (DC)

The Adult Drug Court of NSW is a specialist court that addresses criminal offending with underlying drug dependency. DC emerged due to the communities growing disenchantment to the cycle of drug related crime and the inability of criminal justice approaches to provide long term solutions.
The Hunter Drug Court is based in the suburb of Toronto in Lake Macquarie. To be eligible for the 12 month program a person must: be 18 years of age or over and be willing to participate in the program; be sentenced to fulltime imprisonment if convicted; plead guilty to the offence; use prohibited drugs; live in the Cessnock, Lake Macquarie, Port Stephens areas; be referred from the District Court at East Maitland or Newcastle; be referred from the Local Court at Belmont, Cessnock, Kurri Kurri, Maitland, Raymond Terrace or Toronto.

A person is not eligible if they have: a mental health condition that could prevent or restrict participation in the program; been charged with a violent or sexual offence or charged with a strictly indictable supply of prohibited drugs.

Registry staff conduct preliminary eligibility screening based on the person's age, location of residence and referring court. If the number of eligible applicants outnumber the availability of program places a weekly random selection process occurs to determine which applicants are assigned to available places.

The eligible applicant will be remanded in custody for detoxification, assessment and mental health reviews. Participants are given a copy of the details and conditions of the program. An individually tailored treatment plan can include: counselling, drug rehabilitation, home visits, curfews and medication and may require a participant to enter a residential rehabilitation centre, live in accommodation nominated by a participant which is approved by the Court, or in supported accommodation organised by the Court.

After the assessment the offender appears before the DC to enter a guilty plea, receive a sentence that is suspended, and signs an undertaking to abide by their program conditions. All participants are closely monitored by the court. The court can confer rewards or impose sanctions on participants when they either maintain a satisfactory level of compliance or fails to comply with the program.

For the final sentence the DC take into consideration the offender’s participation in the program, any sanctions that have been imposed and any time spent in custody during the program when reconsidering the initial sentence at the termination of the program. If appropriate the sentence can be set aside and another sentence imposed, however, the initial sentence cannot be increased. When the court finds that a participant has substantially complied with a program a non-custodial sentence is conferred. The court awards certificates of graduation and of achievement to participants who meet or substantially comply with the standards the court has set (Department of Justice and Attorney General, 2016).

1.1.2.1.4   Community Counsellors

Phone: 1300 600 059 (DATARS)

Provide relapse prevention support post detoxification or assessment to reduce or manage substance use for adults 18 years and over. Outpatient management for persons affected by drug and alcohol use. Counsellors are located in Newcastle, Wallsend, Windale, Raymond Terrace, Singleton, Maitland, Cessnock, Nelson Bay and Toronto.

1.1.2.1.5   Alcohol and Drug Services at Calvary Mater Hospital

Phone: 1300 600 059 (DATARS ) or 4914 4796

Hours: Monday to Friday, 8am to 4:30pm
The service is available seven days a week by appointment and based in Edith Street, Waratah. The service provides: information for family and friends of people who have a drug or alcohol issue; outpatient program; detoxification program and illicit drug program.

It involves intensive drug education, support and counselling to help deal with life’s pressures by developing coping strategies. Alcohol and Drug Counsellors will work with the patient to develop an individual care plan, clearly outlining achievable goals. Most services are provided in house at the treatment centre.

Referrals can be made by GP, another hospital, specialist, healthcare providers or self-referred.

1.1.2.1.6  Keep Them Safe Whole-Family Team

| Address: | Officers’ Quarters, Ground Floor, 72 Watt Street, Newcastle NSW 2300 |
| Phone:   | 4964 7100 |
| Fax:     | 4964 7102 |

To improve the safety, welfare, and wellbeing of children and young people the KTS-WFT is a shared approach to child wellbeing and aims is to address the needs of families where carers have mental health and/or substance use problems and parenting difficulties.

Referrals are received from community services with KTS-WFT providing, over a six-month period, specialist assessments; case management; specialist groups, family and individual interventions. The KTS-WFT coordinate, link, and network with other support services to ensure that clients can be treated in a holistic manner, and can continue to receive support following the intervention.

For more information:

1.1.2.1.7  Lakeview Withdrawal Management Service

| Phone:   | 1300 600 059 (DATARS ) or 4923 2060. |

Twelve (12) bed 5-7 day medically supervised withdrawal management service for alcohol and other drugs within a supportive inpatient setting for adults 18 years and older. The service is located on the grounds of Belmont Hospital, Croudace Bay Road, Belmont in Lake Macquarie. Referrals can be made through DATARS. The services is non-smoking with nicotine replacement available.

1.1.2.1.8  Magistrate Early Referral into Treatment (MERIT)

MERIT is a Local Court based program providing services in Cessnock, Maitland, Singleton, Muswellbrook, Raymond Terrace, Toronto and Tamworth local courts. The primary goal is to break the substance abuse-crime cycle by involving defendants in treatment and rehabilitation. The three months program targets eligible adults who have a history of drug and alcohol misuse, are motivated to engage in treatment, suitable for release on bail and who voluntarily agree to participate. It is not an admission of guilt for the offence(s) charged.

Appropriate treatments for the participant will vary accordingly, and may include: detoxification, residential rehabilitation, methadone and pharmacotherapies, counselling individual and group, case management and welfare support and assistance and provided prior to pleas being made with the adjournment of court matters until the completion of the program.
Participants will abide by all conditions of bail and the MERIT treatment plan and have the support and guidance of a MERIT Caseworker. Participants are required to appear before the Magistrate during this period, as the Magistrate hearing the case will require an update on treatment progress.

When a participant is non-compliant, MERIT caseworkers will report this to the Magistrate with the possibility of the participant being removed from the program. If removed from MERIT, the participant's matters proceed to plea or hearing. Failure to respond to a drug treatment program will not attract additional charges. If convicted of the offence(s) as charged, any penalty will relate to that offence only.

The completion of the treatment program usually coincides with the hearing or sentencing of the outstanding court matter. A report from the MERIT Team giving information on the defendant's participation in treatment and any further treatment recommendations will be provided to the Magistrate hearing the case. Where possible, a detailed aftercare program will be created to assist in rehabilitation. Sentencing after the successful completion of MERIT varies and takes into account any recommendations for further treatment (NSW Department of Justice, 2014).

1.1.2.1.11 Substance use in Pregnancy & Parenting Programme (SUPPS)
The Substance Use in Pregnancy and Parenting Service (SUPPS) is a specialist collaborative program operating between Drug and Alcohol Services and Maternal and Paediatric Services. SUPPS offer timely interventions before, during and after pregnancy to ensure better outcomes for women and their families affected by alcohol and other drug use. The guiding principle of SUPPS is to provide an accessible service that offers continuity of care.

1.1.2.1.12 Hunter New England Population Health

Phone: Newcastle - 4924 6499

Description: Hunter New England Population Health delivers services that support the development and maintenance of healthy environments, healthy communities and healthy people to protect and promote the health and well-being of people in the Hunter, New England and wider communities.

Services include responding to environmental, emergency and communicable disease threats, and promoting policies, services, environments and behaviours that are conducive to good health. Services incorporate the principles and strategies of epidemiology, surveillance, health protection, health promotion, behaviour and practice change and research in health behaviours such as smoking, excessive alcohol consumption, inadequate physical activity and poor nutrition, immunisation. The population of over 840,000 live in an area of about 132,845 square kilometres. Cardiovascular disease, stroke, cancer, diabetes, infectious diseases and injury continue to form the major burden of disease.

1.1.3 St Vincent de Paul

Address: 1 Crescent Street, Armidale 2350

Phone: 02 6772 4475

Description: The St Vincent de Paul Society is a lay Catholic organisation that aspires to live the gospel message by serving Christ in the poor with love, respect, justice, hope and joy, and by working to shape a more just and compassionate society. (St Vincent de Paul, 2019).

1.1.3.1 Freeman House

Phone: (02) 6776 8117

Description: Freeman House provides a therapeutic residential rehabilitation service and community based programs offering intensive support for adults experiencing homelessness and/or addiction both before and after a crisis.

To be eligible for this service individuals must be 18 years and older experiencing homelessness and/or drug and alcohol dependency; have a home setting or social circumstances which are not supportive of non-residential treatment options; Aboriginal and wish to remain in their local area; have co-morbid mental health and alcohol and other drug (AOD) addiction and; people exiting custodial settings.

The service promote positive change which is underpinned by evidence-based case management, creative programming, counselling and other therapeutic interventions aimed at providing an environment which encourages people to take control of their own destiny.

The longer term drug and alcohol rehabilitation service is three to 12 month in duration where clients live on-site and participate in the compulsory elements of the rehabilitation schedule. The schedule consists of individual and group counselling, case management, art and music therapy, mindfulness and meditation sessions, physical activities such as gym, yoga and outings. The groups are aimed at exploring individual thoughts, feelings and behaviours, providing education, assisting the development of personal living skills, self-reflection and personal development. (St Vincent de Paul, 2019).

The service aims to support clients to become more self-sufficient, source employment, education and other services, to reconcile past issues and improve confidence by participating in individual case management, counselling, advocacy and the opportunity to participate in life skills and education groups.

The community support service focuses on harm minimisation strategies with the ultimate goal of abstinence.

1.1.4 Kamira Alcohol and Other Drug Treatment Services Inc.

Address: 86 Louisianna Road, Hamlyn Terrace 2259 or PO Box 284, Wyong 2259

Phone: 4392 1341

Description: Kamira provides an abstinence based residential treatment option for women from across NSW who are experiencing problematic alcohol and/or other drug use, are 18 years and older, pregnant, and/or have dependent children.

Kamira offers a warm, homely and safe environment which is child and family friendly with gardens and outdoor areas for rest and relaxation.
The residential program ranges from 5 to 7 months and has a multifactor (looking at the physical, emotional and social reasons that have led to a woman’s alcohol and drug use problems), person centred approach to understanding and treating problematic drug and alcohol use.

Taking a person-centred approach means working collaboratively with each woman to identify her values. These values are used as a base to develop her own program and set her own goals. We support women to address medical, legal, financial, housing and family and relationship issues. Every woman completing the program devises her own recovery plan and is supported to develop the skills that will help her succeed. (Kamira, 2017)

Program content and structure is developed from a trauma informed perspective which focuses on developing skills in mood management to promote clear thinking and good decision making, cognitive behaviour therapy, acceptance and commitment therapy, dialectical behaviour therapy, neuro-sequential model of therapeutics and attachment theory. (Kamira, 2017)

An on-site gym, yoga classes and fitness instruction provided by a personal trainer is available for the women to improve their physical health and well-being with healthy food prepared by a cook.

Children under the age of eight are able to reside at Kamira. Over time it became evident that the children presented with attachment and behavioural problems. Their mothers come from a trauma background or have mental health conditions as well as substance use problems. The children have often lived with traumatic experiences such as domestic violence, neglect and abuse and have parents who were most likely emotionally unavailable to them resulting in attachment difficulties. (Kamira, 2017)

Attachment issues can often present as behavioural difficulties, being withdrawn, emotional regulation problems, sensory integration problems, hyperactivity, PTSD and other diagnosis such as ADHD.

Working on healthy attachment relationships enables the mothers and children to re-connect, strengthen the child’s sense of trust and security and set the scene for trauma therapy (play therapy) for the child. An attachment based treatment plan is guided by the initial assessments of the child’s socio-emotional development, sensory and regulation preferences, attachment relationship, the child’s temperament and the history of the child. To build positive and secure attachment relationships between mothers and children interventions provided include: circle of security group, attachment therapy, parenting skills training and infant massage. (Kamira, 2017a)

Women transition back to the community at the pace of their own recovery plan. The aftercare program offers women telephone support and the opportunity to participate in the group program and see clinical staff.

1.1.7  We Help Ourselves (WHOS) Hunter Valley – Cessnock

Address: Allandale Road, Nulkaba 2325 or PO Box 628, Cessnock NSW 2325

Phone: 4991 7000

Opening Hours: 9.00am and 4.30pm, Monday to Thursday

Description: WHOS Hunter Valley is a 4 – 6 months residential drug free treatment program based on the Therapeutic Community (TC) model for men and women situated at Cessnock in the Hunter Valley NSW.

WHOS provides evidenced-based therapeutic programs and projects aimed at achieving recovery from alcohol and other drug dependence, incorporating harm reduction and co-existing mental health initiatives for individuals seeking a treatment goal of abstinence.

Phone assessments are conducted by staff and if eligible the client will be required to attend the service for a face to face interview and potential admission. Residents have their own room in a large two storey building with men and women’s accommodation and bathroom facilities on separate floors.

WHOS Hunter Valley is funded by the Commonwealth Department of Health and supported by NSW Ministry of Health. To cover costs not provided by funders a fee is required for the first 4 months. After 4 months contributions towards food and accommodation is required.

The TC model means that the community itself, through self-help and mutual support, provides the means for promoting personal change. Residents are encouraged to take responsibility for themselves and build their awareness of the effect their behaviour has on themselves and the community around them. The residents together with the staff participate in the management and day to day operation of the TC community, providing a safe environment.

WHOS integrates other services such as: supported transitional housing, pre-employment skills training, access to educational programs and services, access to medical, mental health and drug and alcohol services, infectious disease and harm reduction projects and initiatives, access to the recovery movement such as community initiated self-help meetings.

Residents attend in-house groups covering topics such as: drug dependence education including drug overdose and relapse prevention; social and communication skills, assertiveness skills and self-esteem building; community ‘unity’ & peer feedback sessions; harm reduction including education on HIV/Hep C as well as CPR information; skills based education (e.g. communications skills, conflict resolution); TAFE run computer skills course. Residents enjoy their free time each day to relax in TV/lounge areas or socialise over the pool table, table tennis or outdoor games, access to exercise equipment, community walks, wellness sessions, activity nights once a week and Sunday special activities.

1.1.9 Multicultural Mental Health & Drug and Alcohol
Contact: Dubravka Vasiljevic, Dubravka.Vasiljevic@hnehealth.nsw.gov.au

Description: The Multicultural Health Liaison Officer for Mental Health & Drug and Alcohol Clinical Services provides consultancy, liaison, advocacy, information and multicultural support to health professionals and clients on any cultural or language issue which may arise before, during and after the treatment.

The Multicultural Health Liaison Officer provides regular cultural awareness training to the staff in Mental Health & Drug and Alcohol Clinical Services on language and cultural issues, which may impact on a culturally and linguistically appropriate care delivery as well as policies and procedures relating to use of health care interpreters and consent.

Stigma associated with mental illness and drug and alcohol issues along with lack of knowledge about available services and different attitudes to mental illness are the biggest barriers in accessing services. Community education programs such as Multicultural Mental Health Wellness Program and Youth Wellness program aim to address these barriers.

Hunter Multicultural Community Drug Action Team (MCDAT) is an outreach program which aims to reduce the incidence of drug and alcohol use among culturally and linguistically diverse communities. Confident Communities: A guide to working together with African communities to reduce alcohol-related harm aims to provide guidance to local community groups, health and other organizations in addressing African and other communities' alcohol related issues.

Foetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) education program has been another successful community education program which was delivered to around 150 people from 12 different backgrounds.

1.2.1 High Risk Antenatal Clinic (HRAC)

Description: The HRAC, based at the John Hunter Hospital in Lake Macquarie, is for women with complex psychosocial issues, including drug and alcohol problems. Women with a substance use issues at the time of booking in are referred for a full drug and alcohol assessment in consultation—liaison with the nurse practitioner who will attend the antenatal clinic. Women are then referred for their antenatal care to HRAC.

Women can self-referral or enter through a drug and alcohol services, public antenatal clinics, midwives clinics, antenatal booking-in visit, local hospital emergency departments, community health centres, GPs, referral by family members, and women’s health nurses.

The early identification, referral and treatment of substance-using pregnant women can reduce health risks such as overdose, accidental injury, low birth weight, neonatal abstinence syndrome and fetal alcohol spectrum disorder and child protection issues. The service is a multidisciplinary collaboration between obstetric/maternity, drug and alcohol, neonatology and other relevant departments.

To streamline the need to attend multiple appointments a single point of contact antenatal care clinic is conducted every second Tuesday afternoon. To review the progress and care plan of each woman, up to the point of discharge at six to eight weeks postnatally, a multidisciplinary meeting is held prior to each clinic. At the clinic, the plan is discussed with the woman for her agreement and participation in the plan.

Referrals to the social work service are made for comprehensive psychosocial assessments, advocacy, referral and counselling during pregnancy. They can provide assistance with locating crisis accommodation or entry into withdrawal and rehabilitation, as well as information regarding relevant community services.

The perinatal and infant psychiatry team provide initial assessment and follow up for women with ongoing mental health issues that may impact on their parenting capacity (including substance abuse, depression, personality disorder and trauma related conditions). Women may then be referred to an early intervention mental health and parenting services.

1.4.3 Nova for Women and Children

Address: PO Box 2080, Dangar NSW 2309

Phone: 4023 5620 (general inquiries)

Description: Nova for Women and Children is the amalgamation of Eva’s Project, Lower Hunter Women’s Housing and Eastlake’s Women’s and Children’s Refuge. The three women’s services operated independently from each other in Newcastle for approximately 25 years until Eva’s Project and Lower Hunter Women's housing services amalgamated in July 2008 and in 2014 Eastlake’s Women's and Children's Refuge joined Nova, following the Specialist Homeless Services (SHS) reforms.

Nova prevents women from becoming homeless by offering information, advice, referral and advocacy support to sustain their current accommodation. Staying Home services are available in-home, in community ‘Staying Home’ centres, and on Nova’s mobile outreach unit. Nova also offers post-crisis support to women who have been rehoused to enable them to sustain their tenancy.

Nova will work quickly with women who become homeless, to help identify affordable private rental, social housing or other suitable long-term, sustainable housing, and if required, the provision of safe and supported interim accommodation. Nova will provide case management, will work with other agencies, and link to support such as education and employment, to wrap around the services needed to address individual needs.

Nova for Women and Children provides Interim (Crisis) Accommodation for a period of 28 days for clients who are in crisis. This service is available for women and/or women with accompanying children experiencing homelessness or who have fled domestic or family violence.

Nova for Women and Children provides medium-term accommodation for a period of up to 12 months. Clients are provided with intensive case management using a client centred approach, to work through identified goals, providing post-crisis support, safe accommodation, advocacy and support into safe and affordable long-term housing through collaboration with housing providers, the private rental market and mainstream services.

NOVA for Women and Children provides outreach support to people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness. This support may include one off support to assess and identify needs and support to access services that may be of assistance. Outreach support maybe to assist people to sustain tenancies that are at risk or to assist with finding alternative accommodation if needed. This support can be offered to people renting in the Private Rental Market, in Social or Community Housing.

Nova has partnered with other organisations to provide easy access to their services out in the community.

2.1.12 Education Court Liaison – NSW Government Department of Education

Description: Providing a pathway for young people to re-connect with their education can lead to life-changing opportunities. The NSW Department of Education’s Education Court Liaison Officers provide a pathway for young people appearing before the Children’s Court to re-engage with education. Officers understand that young people attending court often have a number of problems, and so work with other agencies to better understand what solution will work best for each young person.

Education Court Liaison Officers meet with young people when they present to a Children’s Criminal Court, but are independent of the justice system, child protection system and school attendance programs.

They work closely with schools, TAFEs and other education providers to connect young people into schools or programs, but don’t work within individual schools.

What does an Education Court Liaison Officer do?

Education Court Liaison Officers take a personalised approach to each young person and involves:

- talking to young people about their goals, educational needs and interests
- liaising with schools and training providers on their behalf
- helping the young person understand what options are available
- advocating on their behalf to resolve barriers to education, and connect them to support or programs
- facilitating enrolment in schools, alternative education settings and vocational courses.

The program is currently being piloted in six NSW Children’s Criminal Courts: Broadmeadow, Campbelltown, Nowra, Parramatta, Port Kembla and Surry Hills.

2.3.3 Youth Drug and Alcohol Service (YDACS) – HNEkidshealth

Address: Newcastle Community Health Centre, Level 2, 670 Hunter Street Newcastle (entrance off Hunter Street), Newcastle, 2230
Phone: 1800 950 755

Description: The Youth Drug and Alcohol Service (YDACS) is a youth specific drug and alcohol service, that works with young people aged 12 – 18 years of age who need help due to their moderate to severe drug and/or alcohol use. When a young person has a “moderate to severe” substance use problem, the drug or alcohol use may be impacting on their mental health (heightened anxiety, depression, psychosis), attendance at school or work, relationships with family and friends, their overall health (weight loss, sexual problems) and finances (in debt). Although using drugs might seem a good way to feel good and manage some difficult emotions, it can be really risky, leading to ongoing physical and mental health issues and for some people, death.

YDACS is a specialist service that is flexible to an individual young person’s needs. It is a voluntary service that offers drug and alcohol assessment, counselling, treatment & case management for young people and their families. It is understood that all young people come from diverse backgrounds, genders, sexuality, cultures and have their own unique experiences and stories.
YDACS works across the whole of the Hunter New England Health District although they are based in Newcastle. They do this through the YDACS clinic in Newcastle, an outreach clinic in Cessnock and telehealth through the rest of the district. Telehealth is a way that they can work with someone even though we are not face to face. They can also provide advice to services who are already working with a young person where this may be a better way of offering help.

2.6.3 Department of Family and Community Services (FACS) - Out-of-home care (OOHC)

Description: Children and young people who are unable to live with their own families are placed in OOHC. Foster carers take on the responsibilities of a parent for a period of time, to provide a safe, nurturing and secure family environment for children and young people needing care.

Children and young people stay in care until they’re able to safely return home. The length of time in care will vary depending on the situation. If they’re unable to return to their birth parents, relative or kinship care may be organised with a member of the child’s extended family or someone they know.

Immediate or crisis care are emergency placements that may occur after-hours and on weekends and is for children who need an urgent placement due to a risk to their immediate safety.

Respite care is for parents and carers who require a break from their caring responsibilities for a short periods of time, such as school holidays, weekends or for short periods during the week.

Short to medium-term placements are up to 6 months and have a strong focus on restoring the child with their birth parents or extended family.

Long-term placements are for children who are not expected to return to their family and stays are for longer periods than 6 months.

NSW: Identifying and Responding to Drug and Alcohol Issues. The primary aim is to ensure effective health outcomes for all patients accessing Health Services in NSW.

Compliance with this policy directive is mandatory.

3.1.6 Nursing & Midwifery Clinical Guidelines - Identifying & Responding to Drug & Alcohol Issues
Description: These guidelines provide nurses and midwives with support and a benchmark for quality drug and alcohol use assessment and care in daily practice.

3.1.7 Maternal & Child Health Primary Health Care Policy
Description: The Maternal and Child Health Policy is one part of the NSW Health/Families NSW Supporting Families Early package. The package contains policies and guidelines for the identification of vulnerable families from a universal platform of primary health care services. This is through the comprehensive primary care assessment model, SAFE START, and the provision of maternal and child primary health care services including Universal Health Home Visiting. The package is underpinned by the Families NSW strategy, equity and clinical practice principles that include working in partnership with the family and facilitating the development of the parent-infant relationship.

3.1.8 SAFE START Guidelines: Improving Mental Health Outcomes for Parents & Infants
Description: The SAFE START Guidelines: Improving Mental Health Outcomes for Parents and Infants, outlines the rationale for psychosocial assessment, risk prevention and early intervention. It proposes a spectrum of coordinated clinical responses to the various configurations of risk factors and mental health issues identified through psychosocial assessment in the perinatal period. It also examines the broader specialist role of Mental Health Services in addressing the needs of parents with, or at risk of, developing mental health problems.

3.1.9 NSW Maternity and Neonatal Service Capability Framework
Description: The scope of the NSW Maternity and Neonatal Service Capability Framework (the Framework) is to provide guidance and support within a safety and quality framework for the provision of maternity and neonatal services at site specific levels. The Framework guides on admission, escalation and back transfer regarding both maternity and neonatal services.

3.1.10 Perinatal Data Collection Classification Changes Effective from 1 January 2016
Description: This Information Bulletin informs NSW Health public hospitals, private hospitals and independent midwives of changes to the Perinatal Data Collection (PDC) applicable for births occurring on and after 1 January 2016.

KEY INFORMATION
To align with NSW Health’s strategic direction and to maintain compliance with national reporting requirements, the perinatal data collection will transition from MDCOS to be reported to EDWARD, NSW Health’s enterprise data warehouse. Changes to Perinatal Data Collection will have significant benefits to public and private hospitals, in particularly:
• Changes to data submission method and availability of error reports to facilities on submission
• Changes to the corrected data submission method thus eliminating current manual process. Perinatal data will be submitted to EDWARD via different sources and is dependent on the submission entity.
• Public hospitals with a maternity unit submit perinatal data directly to EDWARD
• Private hospitals with a maternity information system submit perinatal data to PeriPH prior to PeriPH sending PDC records to EDWARD
• Independent midwives, public hospitals without a maternity unit and private hospitals without a maternity information system will submit perinatal data via secure web based form (PeriForm) to PeriPH and then to EDWARD. Reporting perinatal data for births on or after 1 January 2016 includes the following changes to the data collection:
  1. Discontinued data elements
  2. New data elements
  3. Continuing data elements with changes to data types
  4. Continuing data elements with classification changes.

3.2 Alcohol and Young People

3.2.1 Children and Young Persons (Care and Protection) Act 1998 No 157

3.2.2 Children and Adolescents with Mental Health Problems Requiring Inpatient Care
Description: This policy defines the key principles and provides a framework for determining the most appropriate treatment facility for those children and adolescents with mental health problems who require inpatient treatment. This includes admission into the following inpatient units: Specialist Child and Adolescent Mental Health units; Paediatric hospitals and paediatric wards in general hospitals; Adult Acute Mental Health wards; and PECCs (Psychiatric Emergency Care Centre).

3.2.3 Provision of Services to People with an Intellectual Disability & Mental Illness - MOU & Guidelines
Description: This MOU and the accompanying Guidelines document are a joint agreement committing both NSW & ADHC to work in cooperation to promote a safe and coordinated system of care for people with intellectual disability and a mental illness.

Compliance with this policy directive is mandatory.

3.2.4 Child Wellbeing and Child Protection Policies and Procedures for NSW Health
Description: The Child Wellbeing and Child Protection Policies and Procedures for NSW Health brings together in a single document the tools and guidance for Health workers to meet their legal and policy responsibilities within the NSW Government Child Protection System.

Every Health worker coming into contact with a child or young person has a responsibility to protect their health, safety, welfare and wellbeing.

Compliance with this policy directive is mandatory.

3.2.5 Youth Health and Wellbeing Assessment
Description: This guideline presents the current best evidence for conducting a Youth Health and Wellbeing Assessment. It aims to inform practice for healthcare providers to achieve the best possible care in NSW.

This guideline is primarily targeted to clinicians caring for young people (aged 12-24) in a paediatric, adolescent or adult healthcare settings (in both hospital and community health settings). Clinicians are encouraged to take all appropriate opportunities to conduct Youth Health and Wellbeing assessment.

3.2.6 Health Assessment of Children and Young People in Out-of-Home-Care (Clinical Practice Guidelines)
Description: The guidelines aim to provide guidance to Local Health Districts and health professionals on the recommended approach to the health assessment process for children and young people in statutory Out-of-Home Care. They reflect NSW Health’s approach to the implementation of the National Clinical Assessment Framework for Children and Young People in OOHC (2011).
